B.A.S.E.41 Hosts Specialized Training for 41PD Officers

In a strong example of interdepartmental cooperation, B.A.S.E.41 recently organized and conducted a specialized training exercise for officers of the 41 Police Department. The session was designed to improve response readiness in roadside emergencies, vehicle-related incidents, and high-risk recovery situations.

The training focused on practical coordination between law enforcement and emergency roadside services, giving 41PD officers the opportunity to work directly alongside the experienced team from B.A.S.E.41. Participants were introduced to proper scene management around disabled vehicles, safe handling procedures during roadside interventions, and the basics of securing accident zones before additional support arrives.

According to those involved, the exercise was not only informative but also highly practical. Officers trained in realistic conditions and were able to gain a better understanding of how B.A.S.E.41 operates during critical breakdown and service situations.

Representatives from both sides described the event as a success and emphasized the importance of continued joint training in the future. As traffic volume and roadside incidents continue to increase across the region, exercises like this help ensure that emergency response teams remain efficient, coordinated, and prepared.

The initiative highlights B.A.S.E.41's growing role not only as a breakdown and service provider, but also as a professional partner in public safety operations. For the 41 Police Department, the training served as another step toward strengthening operational standards and teamwork across essential services.

41 Shots Fire department back in action after private funding

After months of support from neighboring fire departments, the 41 Shots Fire Department is finally back in action. With the help of community members, firefighter Bram, now officially Fire Chief Bram, was able to secure enough funding to restart the department. In a brief interview, Fire Chief Bram spoke about the effort behind the reopening:

“We had a lot of support from the community, and without that, this restart would not have been possible. People stepped in with donations, offers of vehicles, and all kinds of help when we needed it most.” People even offered to donate vehicles to support the department. Local light and paint shops also stepped in, offering to paint the newly acquired secondhand vehicles and install emergency lights free of charge.

Motorcycle Season Begins with Group Rides Across Jeju and Oji

by kopolla

With the start of motorcycle season, roads across Jeju Island and Oji Island have come back to life as biker groups gather for their first major rides of the year. Throughout the region, riders have been meeting up in large numbers to enjoy the open road, coastal routes, and mountain stretches together. The renewed activity has already created a noticeable buzz among locals, with groups of motorcycles regularly seen cruising through towns, countryside roads, and scenic island highways. Of course, before twisting the throttle and chasing the horizon, riders are reminded to give their motorcycles a proper safety check. That means having a look at the tire tread, checking lights and brakes, and making sure the bike is road-ready. After all, looking cool on two wheels becomes significantly less impressive when the ride ends because someone forgot basic maintenance. Authorities and local services also encourage all bikers to wear proper protective gear at all times. Helmets, jackets, gloves, and sturdy footwear may not always win style contests, but they tend to be far more useful than road rash. With motorcycle traffic expected to rise in the coming weeks, the season is off to an energetic start across both islands.

Fire Chief Bram also addressed the current limitations of the fleet: “Sadly, with the funds we had available, there were no fire engines within reach. For now, we still have to borrow and rent them from nearby departments, but getting back into service at all is already a huge step for us.”

Now that out-of-control fires are once again being contained more effectively, the island is becoming a safer place. Applications for the Fire Department have also reopened for anyone interested in joining. Those who cannot serve full-time are still encouraged to apply as volunteers.

Seongsan High School Recognized for Outstanding School Catering

by Diallo

Seongsan High School has earned special recognition in a recent survey comparing 1,000 schools, with its food caterer being rated as the provider of the most diverse and healthiest meals. The result has placed the school in the spotlight and sparked positive reactions from students, parents, and staff alike.

According to the survey findings, Seongsan High School stood out for offering a wide variety of balanced meals that combine nutrition, freshness, and choice. From wholesome dishes to well-rounded daily menus, the school's catering service has built a reputation for serving food that is both appealing and beneficial to student health.

The recognition is seen as a major success for the school, especially at a time when healthy eating and student well-being are becoming increasingly important topics in education. For many, Seongsan High School now sets a strong example of how quality school meals can make a real difference in everyday student life.

Dangerous activities in the Cult

The 41 Cult has recently been linked to several incidents, many of them reportedly involving illegal activity. The Investigation Department of the 41 Police Department has not released further details, keeping the case private for now.

An expert in renewable energy told us that the group may be planning sabotage against Jeju Island's energy system.

The Cult was also reportedly seen during an attempted sabotage at Dongsan Quarry while assaulting a Terra convoy.

These repeated appearances at key locations have raised growing concern among residents and officials alike.

Many are now asking whether the Cult is trying to distract from its true activities or preparing for something even larger.

Bank of Gangjung closed for accident Recovery and Assault

The Ganjung Central Bank was forced to close for two days following a violent assault involving the bank's vault area. One citizen was injured during the incident, while employees described the event as the most aggressive situation the bank has faced in the last 50 years.

The Ganjung Central Bank was forced to close for two days following a violent assault involving the bank's vault area. One citizen was injured during the incident, while employees described the event as the most aggressive situation the bank has faced in the last 50 years.

According to reports, CCTV footage captured the robbery, and the 41 Police Department has launched an active investigation. At this time, the exact motive behind the attack remains unknown. Security presence in the area has since been increased, though concern among local residents remains high.

B.A.S.E.41 also responded to the scene and worked carefully to remove the vehicle involved without causing further damage to the building. Their efforts helped stabilize the area as authorities continued their investigation.
